

Crochet hat sizing guidelines

To work out how to make the crown of a hat, there are 2 simple formulas. Let's try and make a newborn baby hat.

As we are working the crown in rounds, the diameter grows, but how do you know when to stop, when is it big enough ?

If the diameter of our circle measures 4 inches (10 cms), then we do this simple formula : $4 \times 3.14 = 12.5$ inches ($10 \times 3.14 = 31.4$ cms), so this gives us the circumference of the hat of 12.5 inches (31.4 cms), which reaches the newborn size. At this point, stop the increases, and carry working on the body of the hat, until desired length.

Now, let's say, if you wanted to make a newborn baby hat, and only knew the hat circumference size, how do you work out how big to make the crown, then we reverse the formula, so it would be : $12.5 \div 3.14 = 4$ inches ($31.4 \div 3.14 = 10$ cms).

I hope that has helped. I am inserting 2 tables of all sizes of hats, along with how big the hat crown diameter should be, the hat height, etc, from premie sizes all the way up to adult sizes.
